Transtech Driven declares ongoing support for IAP services throughout Australia

Shaun Owen, founder of Transtech, recently stated that, “We have been providing integrated software solutions for the heavy vehicle transport industry for over ten years and are here for the long haul.

Our commitment to providing IAP services and complementary non-IAP transport and logistics tools throughout Australia is unwavering. We stand committed in helping transport companies through the entire IAP application process, through to being fully operational under IAP.”

Transtech Driven, a certified IAP Service Provider, together with its sister organisation Transtech Consulting Services, bring together a full range of integrated technology solutions. Transtech has ten years transport industry solutions experience and boasts a broad suite of complementary non-IAP transport and logistics tools. Transtech's offering encompasses fatigue management, delivery planning and scheduling, load planning, routing and fleet management.

Shaun Owen further stated, “We are very proud of our service. We do not use impersonal, automated phone systems. When you call us, you will speak to one of our technicians with immediate access to all the information you may require. If you want to come into our offices and discuss your needs with us, you are most welcome.

We are committed to providing an unparalleled IAP service that exceeds our clients' requirements and expectations.”
